Provide an overview of the project, explaining the basic ideas, problems, or questions examined by the study. Describe the intellectual significance of the proposed project, including its value to humanities scholars, general audiences, or both. Explain how the project will complement, challenge, or expand relevant studies in the field.

b. Methods and work plan

Describe your method(s) and clarify the part or stage of the project that will be supported by the fellowship. Provide a work plan describing what will be accomplished during the award period. If you do not anticipate finishing the entire project during the award period, discuss your plan for doing so. For book projects, explain how the final project will be organized. If possible, provide a brief chapter outline. For digital projects, describe the technologies that will be used and developed, and explain how the scholarship will be presented to benefit audiences in the humanities.

c. Competencies and skills

Explain your competence in the area of your project. If the area of inquiry is new to you, explain your reasons for working in it and your qualifications to do so. Specify the level of competence in any language or digital technology needed for the study.

d. Final product and dissemination

Describe the intended audience and the intended results of the project. Explain how the results will be disseminated and why these means are appropriate to the subject matter and audience. If thethe project has a website, provide the URL.

2. Bibliography (not to exceed 1 single--spaced page)

The bibliography should consist of primary and secondary sources that relate directly to the project. Include works that pertain to the   substance and its theoretical or methodological approaches. Evaluators will use the bibliography to assess your knowledge of the subject area. Any standard format is acceptable.

3. Abridged CV (not to exceed 3 single--spaced pages)

The CV should provide the following:

    and Past Positions.
        List degrees, dates awarded, and titles of theses or dissertations.
    and Honors (include dates)
        Include full citations for publications and presentations.